Conflict in the Superior Court

eros, May 23 .- A very interesting ase has been commenced in the Superior ourt in this city, which involves the of Catholic priests to discipline embers of their parish by publicly de-ouncing them. The suit is one of slangainst Father James McGlew, of Chela, and the damages are laid at $2,000.

The plaintiff, in his declaration, says that in 1873 he was lawfully married to Catharine Murphy by a duly authorized magistrate, and in full accordance with the law; that he and his wife had always lived a chaste and upright life, and bore a good name among their neighbors and in the church and parish, but they incurred the displeasure and hostility of the defendant by reason of their marriage; that on or about the 9th of November, 1873, the defendant, in church and in the presence of a large congregaand in the presence of a large congrega-tion, publicly, falsely and maliciously accused the plaintiff of crime, by words poken of the plaintiff, as follows:

Father McGlew, in his defense, says that if he spoke the words as alleged they were spoken by him in his capacity and by virtue of his authority as parish priest and spiritual director for the plaintiff; that he had a full spiritual and ecclesiastical authority over him and his wife to disapprove, condemn, and consure, privately and publicly, the plaintiff and his wife for any violation of the teachings, doctrines, laws rules, and discipline of the Church, and had the full ecclesiastical and spiritual guidance, care, direction, and teaching of them; that the words al-THE DEFENSE. nd teaching of them; that the words al-orded to have been spoken by the defendant Hepworth is holding a series of afternoon ieged to have been spoken by the defendant if they were spoken by him, were on information, evidence and belief on the defendant's part that the plaintiff and his wife had violated the doctrines, laws, rules, teachings, and usages of the Roman Catholic Church by being married outside of the Church and by some person other than a regularly ordained priest of the Church, in gross violation of its decretines, laws, rules, usages, and teachings, and to the great scandal and injury of the members of the parish and church and to the great detriment of the plaintiff and the great detriment of the plaintiff and wife, as the defendant believes, and is and by the obligations of his office to each, as the pastor and priest, and as the daintiff and his wife were members of the aintiff and his wife were members of the urch at the time of the marriage and rer since, well knew, and that at the me of their marriage, for a long time reviously and ever since, have claimed to emembers of the church and parish, and be subject to the doctrines, teachings, test, usages, and dicipline of the church, and subjected themselves to the same.

Effects of the Trial in Brooklyn. lowing:

occurrence in Brooklyn families. For ustance the other day, at the breakfast table of a well-known resident of Pierrepont street, the following colloquy took place:

Pater famalias (in a stern voice to a pretty daughter, aged twenty)—"Julia, who was that young man who was here last night?"
Julia (with deliberation)—"A friend."
Father—"How late did he stay?"
Julia—"I don't remember."
Father—"What is his name?"
Lulia—"I can't recollect." Julia-"I can't recollect

Julia Teant reconect.
Father—"Where does he live?"
Julia (qulckly)—"He's moved."
Father (reprovingly)—"Don't answer in that evasive manner. Did he kiss

you before leaving?"

A young sister who had been reading the trial (turning to rich old bachelor uncle)—"I object; the question is 'leading."

Father—"I insist upon an answer—yes or no—and will put the question in another form. Was there any salutation of other form. Was there any santation of the lips?"

Julia (absently) "My memory fails me in matters of detail, although" (with a pause) "thore might have been something of the kind."

At this point the breakfast ended.

HINTS FOR CARVING.-To carve fowls, which should always be laid with the breast uppermost, place the fork in the breast, and take off the wing and legs, without turning the low; then cut out the merry thought; cut alices from the breast, cut out the collar-bone; cut of the diep leces, and then cut the carease in two. Divide the joints in the leg of a turkey. In carving a sirloin, cut this slices from the side next to you. (It must be put on the dish the tenderloin underneath) then turn it. Help the guests to both kinds. In carving a site of mutton or ham, begin at leg of mutton or ham, begin at legs of mutton or ham, begin at legs of mutton or ham, begin at close on Saturday, but afterwards there by cutting across the middle to the bone. Cut a tongue across, and not length. without turning the fowl; then cut out the by citting, across the middle to the was a decline to 19. This was precipitated by the decline at London, as well as by the wise, and help from the middle. Carve a fore-quarter, of lamb by separating the shoulder from the ribs, and then divide the ribs. To carve a loin of yead, begin at the smaller end and separate the ribs, telp each, one to a piece of kidney and its fat. Carve pork and mutton in the same way. To carve a fillet of veal, begin at the top and help to the similar with each slice. In a breast of veal, separate the breast and breast of veal, separate the breast and brigket, and the filled to a receiver being appointed. The General market at the opening was 14 for per cent lower than at the close with each slice. In a breast of yeal, separate the breast and brisket, and then cut to ½ per cent lower than at the close up, asking which part is preferred. In on Saturday, and subsequently a still carving a pig, it is customary to divide it and take off the head before it comes to the table, as to many persons the head is there was an improvement. Stocks were week and ussettled during the the ribs.

Is we think of religion only as a means of escaping what we call the wrath to come, we shall not escape it; we are already under it; we are under the burden of death, for we care only for ourselves.—

The next time she calls ahe says:

"Young man, it's almost noon and I can't cook dinner without that wood!"

"I know it—'Im coming now," he replies, and he stands on one foot and holds a long discussions with the Johnson boy as to whether the game of "hop-scotch" is as good a game as base balk. He has just started to hop when a boy whispers:

"Ah, Bill! there's your old dad!"

"Great snakes!" whispers Bill, and he goes over the fence like a flash, grabs the axe, and during the next two minutes he strikes two hundred blows per minute. His gets into the house shead of his father, and as he drops the wood, says:

"Mother, the boys were just a sayin' that I had the handsomest and best and goodest mother on Lacrosse street, and I want to kis you!"—Detroit Free Fress.

Wongu K wowing —Evers little while we read in the papers of some one who has stuck a rusty nail in his foot, or knee, or hand, or some other portion of his person, and lockjaw has resulted therefrom, of which the patient died. If every person in the world was aware of a perperson in the world was aware of a per-fect remedy for all such wounds and would apply it, then such reports would cease. But though we can apply the remedy, we cannot enforce the applica-tion. Some will not employ it because they think it too simple; some have no faith in it when they read, and soon forget it, while others think such a wound of small account and not worth fussing over, until it is too late to do any good. Yet all such wounds can be healed without such a fatal consequence as often follows such a fatal consequence as often follows them. The remedy is simple, almost althem. The remedy is simple, almost alt-ways at hand, and can be applied by any one, and what is better, it is infallible. It is simply to smoke such wound or bruise that is infanced with burning wool or cotton cloth. Twenty minutes in the smoke of wool, will take the pain out of the worst wound, and repeated once or twice, it will allay the worst infams, tion arising from a wound we ever saw. tion arising from a wound we ever saw. People may sneer at this "old woman's reasedy as much as they please, but when they are afflicted, just let them try it. JIM FIRE'S AND NED STOKE'S FATHERS and evening meetings. These services bring together a great variety of people, representing different sections of the city, and different sects. Mr Stokes, (father of Edward), with his family, are quite and different sects. In clores, tander of Edward), with his family, are quite regular in their attendance. One evening a man arose and offered a prayer. He was quite a fine looking man, had a mellow, pleasant voice, and was rather gifted. The next evening, he was in the meeting, and the missionary went down and spoke to him, and asked if he would not make a few remarks whon there was a vacancy. He thought it a good thing to have the time filled and filled up well. The stranger, nothing loath, came to his feet, and, in a five minutes' speech, made a genuine sensation. He said: "My dear Christian friends, I am glad to be among you, to-night. I am a man who has seen a great deal of affliction. I had a son that I loved dearly, but he was killed. My son's name was James Fisk, Jr. Perhaps you have heard of him." At this announcement an excitement was produced, not much calculated to provoke a reviyou have heard of him." At this an nonneement an excitement was produced not much calculated to provoke a revival.—"Burleigh's" New York Letter.

last hour of business, but just before the A GOOD-SIZED SCANDAL AT DAVENDORT, IA.—Davenport, Ia., has a scandal very much above the average even in these days. A well-known river-pilot, named theorge C. Nichols, recently filed an information charging his wife with committing adultery with ten or twelve of the most prominent citizens of the city, immediately, his wife had him arrested on the ground that he was insane, but an examination established his sanity. Then he had his whole family arrested on a charge of conspiracy, and they were lodgical in jail, though finally bailed out. Nichols and his wife have been married 26 years, and they have five grown daughters. Some scandalous exposures are promised when the trial takes place, as several well-known citizens and church members are said to be implicated.
